JOHNNY WONDER

Q. "WHAT WAS A UNICORN?"

OWEN SENTELL, OF OCEANSIDE, CA., WINS A PRIZE FOR THIS QUESTION.

A. Old Greek and Roman myths tell of a strange beast with the head and body of a horse, the hind legs of an antelope, the tail of a lion, and the beard of a goat. It was called a "unicorn." A unicorn had a single long, twisted horn sticking out of its forehead. Those who drank from a cup made of a unicorn's horn were said to be protected from poison. The idea of unicorns may have started with the tales told by early travelers — tales which probably described the rhinoceros or the oryx, a long-horned antelope. The tales grew more marvelous each time they were told.

You can win a World Almanac if you question it. Send your name and age to JOHNNY WONDER, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1258, Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
